BEAUMONT, TX – (October 15, 2013) Local real estate developer, Dade Phelan, today announced his candidacy for The Texas House of Representatives. House District 21 includes part of Jefferson County and all of Orange County.

“After hearing from friends and supporters asking me to consider running for this open seat, I have decided to declare myself a candidate for the Texas House of Representatives,” said Phelan. “The people of Southeast Texas want a conservative, effective leader with both the legislative knowledge and business experience to deliver results.”

“With the retirement of two local, key state legislators, we need an individual who can hit the ground running,” Phelan continued. “Southeast Texas has no time for a learning curve.”

Mr. Phelan served on the legislative staffs of Republican State Senator Tommy Williams and Republican Congressman Dick Armey prior to his career in real estate development. Dade and his wife, Kim, have three children and are active community leaders. Mr. Phelan is a two-time Governor Perry appointee to the Lower Neches Valley Authority and its current president. He is also past board secretary to Catholic Charities of Southeast Texas, former board member to Southeast CASA, Golden Triangle CCA, St. Anne Church and The Jefferson Theatre.
