April 25, 2012 (Austin)--The Texas Civil Justice League Political Action Committee (TCJL PAC) today endorsed Dan Huberty for re-election as State Representative for District 127.

“We are proud to endorse Dan Huberty in this race,” said John Fainter, TCJL Chairman. “His broad experience as a businessman and former school board member uniquely qualify him to serve in our state legislature. He understands that in order for Texas to continue to grow and prosper, we need a strong business climate and a public education system that is second to none.”

A lifelong Republican, Rep. Huberty was elected to the Texas House of Representatives in 2010. In his first legislative session, Dan served on two important House committees, Public Education and State Affairs. Prior to his election to the Texas House, he served for five years as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Humble Independent School District. He and his wife Janet have three children.

“Dan Huberty will be a strong advocate for local community control of public schools, accountability to the taxpayers, and an educated workforce for the future,” said Carol Sims, TCJL PAC Treasurer. “We need his wisdom, dedication, and integrity in the Texas House of Representatives, and he deserves our enthusiastic and unqualified support for election.”

Formed in 1986, the TCJL PAC supports statewide, legislative, and judicial candidates, regardless of party affiliation, who are committed to creating and maintaining a fair and efficient Texas civil justice system. It has more than 5,000 members in Texas.
